ABSTRACT

In February 1987, President Ronald Reagan proposed legislation to improve U.S. international trade in order to decrease the trade deficits. This legislative proposal would: (1) renew authority for negotiating agreements to remove trade barriers; (2) reduce self-imposed export barriers; (3) improve existing U.S. trade remedy laws; (4) overhaul programs to benefit workers affected by imports; and (5) amend U.S. regulations and laws to promote international competition. This selected bibliography from Robert E. Kennedy Library (San Luis Obispo, California) lists U.S. government publications available about this legislation. The 252 citations are divided under nine headings that include: (1) background; (2) General Agreement on Tariff and Trade; (3) agricultural trade; (4) trade in service; (5) trade and less developed countries; (6) Generalized System of Preference; (7) protectionism and unfair practice; (8) high tech trade and national security; and (9) current legislations. A subject index is included. (DJC)

INTRODUCTION

Record United States trade deficits, $148 billion in 1985 and $170 billion in 1986, have focused national attention on trade policy and competitiveness. The United States is the world's largest trading nation, and millions of American jobs are export related. The economic health of the United States and other major countries is dependent on trade and the maintenance of an open and fair trading system.

In February 1987, President Reagan proposed comprehensive legislation to improve U.S. competitiveness. This legislative proposal would: renew authority for negotiating agreements to remove trade barriers; reduce self-imposed export barriers; improve existing U.S. trade remedy laws; overhaul programs to benefit workers affected by imports; and amend a number of U.S. regulations and laws to promote international competition.

The purpose of this bibliography is to provide some of the government publications in these subject areas which are available in the Government Documents and Maps Department of the Robert E. Kennedy Library. All items cited are selected from the Monthly Catalog of U.S. Government Publications (1979-1987), Congressional Information Service Index (1979-1987), and Guide to Major Studies and Issue Briefs of the Congressional Research Service (1978-1987).
